

WAS MAN THERE TO SHOOT TAFT?

Suspect, Heavily Armed, Arrested By Chief Aid To President, Captain Bailey,
At Portland.

HE WAS CROWDING NEAR THE AUTO

Had Six-Shooter In Pocket And Plenty Of Reserve Ammunition---Had Camera In His Hand, Evidently For A Bluff.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Portland, Ore., Oct. 2.—It is possible that the life of President Taft was saved and the nation saved the horror of another presidential assassination by the prompt action of Chief Aid to President, Captain Bailey, and two local detectives this morning.
As the presidential party were leaving the Portland hotel to take the waiting autos to review the military parade, Captain Bailey noticed suspicious actions on the part of a man who had a camera in his hand and was crowding near the president. Calling two local detectives to his aid, the man was taken in custody.
At the station where he was found to be heavily armed, having a large revolver and a quantity of extra ammunition. He refused to give his name but said he was from Boston.
It is believed that but for the prompt action of Captain Bailey and the detectives a tragedy might have occurred as much mystery surrounds the man and he refuses to give any accounting of his actions.
When arrested he was crowded toward the auto in which the president was sitting, evidently seeking a point of vantage, but apparently not trying to use his camera. It was this that caused suspicion to rest upon him.
Later the man gave his name as Arthur G. Wright, age 28, and said he arrived from Lowell, Mass., Tuesday night and was accustomed to carrying a pistol.
He could not explain the possession of the quantity of extra ammunition.

During the week the Upper Mississippi River Improvement Association will meet at Winona, the American Humane Association at St. Paul, the National Association of Underwriters at Louisville, and the Association of Military Surgeons in Washington, D. C.

MASSON WILL BE TRIED OCTOBER 11

Certain Stoughton Holders of Worthless Checks Would Be Glad to See Him Leave the Country.

A. J. Masson, alleged descendant of the Ojibwa Indians and graduate of the Carlisle school, will be tried in the United States district court, October 11, on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Attorney Adams will be counsel for the defendant despite the fact that he holds a check for $25 from Masson which is alleged to be worthless. Mrs. Dolan, who came here from St. Paul in Masson's interest is well supplied with jewelry as well as cash and one of her $200 diamond rings which was examined by a local expert was pronounced to be fully up to specifications. Having heard Masson spell the name of his alibi father, "Karl," District Attorney Fisher is not inclined to attach much weight to the prisoner's supposed alibi associations. It is said that he stands ready to testify against certain Stoughton "blind pigs" and that in consequence there are certain people living in that bustling little city who would be glad to forget all about worthless checks if the Indian could only be persuaded to get out of the country.

OBSERVANCE OF LAW RELATIVE TO SPEED

Janesville Auto Club Passes Resolutions—Will Erect Warning Post
For Visiting Autoists.

Co-operation with the city officials in the abatement of the auto speeding nuisance was the keynote of the discussions of the automobile owners of the city who met last evening in Dr. Edden's office to discuss the situation. The owners not desiring to risk arrest and curbing for the safety of pedestrians, expressed themselves in favor of abatement of the law and adopted resolutions to that effect, which were presented to the chief of police. The chief had stated that in his opinion there had been some flagrant cases of disobedience of the law and said that unless something was done arrests would be made. The Automobile club called the meeting to do something to comply with the chief's requests and prevent arrest. The resolutions adopted were:
Resolved: That the members of the Janesville Automobile club will co-operate with the proper officials of this city for the purpose of securing an absolute compliance by all automobile drivers with the regulations of the Wisconsin state automobile law.
Resolved: That the city of Janesville should erect at the city limits all main country roads running into this city, proper sign boards giving notice of the lawful speed limits at which automobiles may be operated within the city so that tourists may exceed such limits at their peril.

HOARD'S IDEAS ON SCHOOL QUESTION

PRESIDENT OF STATE BOARD OF REGENTS DIFFERS WITH VAN HISE.

BELIEVES SYSTEM WRONG

Says Pupils Are Taught With Regard to University Education Whereas
But Few Go There.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—The speech of ex-Governor Hoard of Fort Atkinson, president of the board of university regents, before the state convention of city school superintendents, yesterday, in which he found fault with the present system of making the high schools put "fitting for college" above and before "fitting for life," has aroused the most earnest discussion here in the university community and will attract wide attention throughout the state. The speech is somewhat sensational in view of the fact that by it the president of the board of university regents takes a position in opposition to the views of Dr. C. B. Van Hise, president of the university. Governor Hoard would make of the high school a finishing school for the vast majority of boys and girls who complete their schooling there, rather than make it a feeder or recruiting station for the university.

"I am confronted with some questions in my mind concerning the philosophy of our present high schools," said Gov. Hoard, "and I would add anything concretely it would be this, that the present Wisconsin high school tries to teach too much—too much. It has gone from a local proposition to a statewide proposition. It is today too much a recruiting station for the university of Wisconsin. It has no business to be such an institution. It is supported by local taxation for local purposes, for local enlightenment. It has no business today to be in relation with the university of Wisconsin, in any curricular of the high school is based upon the necessities of the university to an extent, in my opinion, that is subversive of the best interests of the great majority of the pupils in the high schools. I do not like the situation. I am a regent of the university. I believe, gentlemen, that we are sacrificing a large amount of usefulness in the future to a theory, a theory that our system of education shall be a unit with the university at the head. If that be true where is the head? That is the question today? Wisconsin, the most wonderful and good for nothing school practically. Now then, what have we consumed too much with an idea of the head and not enough of the feet, for the head can't say to the feet, 'I have no need of thee.' I am confronted with the fact that a large number of young men turned out at our high schools are loaded down with something that they do not understand, loaded down, I am confronted with that fact with regard to mathematics. I am confronted with the fact in a practical business way, with relation to the young men that have been put upon algebra when they knew scarcely anything about arithmetic. Now, this is putting the cart before the horse. Things are not in their right relation. I believe that arithmetic should be taught in the high school to the last day of the pupils' life and taught practically, taught intensely. I am not so certain about the proposition of algebra, or what is so-called higher mathematics, but when you bring me a pupil graduated at my high school that can not cast up accounts or calculate a crumpley dividend in percentage, I am asking myself the question, 'O, algebra, what are you good for,' and the pupil telling me that he did not understand percentages, that he went through and did not understand it.

ST. LOUIS IS IN FESTIVE ATTIRE

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF
FOUNDING OF CITY COM-MENCES.

SPECIAL SERVICES SUNDAY

Mark Beginning Of Exercises In Honor Of Event—Balloons and Aeroplano Races Later in Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—The City of St. Louis will be 100 years old tomorrow. The three-quarters of a million inhabitants and thousands of guests will know it before the day is far advanced, even though the elaborate decorations seen in the city today may not have already forebodingly impressed the fact of the approaching birthday upon their minds.
As the sun rises there will be a ringing of church bells in every part of the city. Everybody who will not already have arisen to assist in the preparations for the special centennial services to be held in all of the city's four hundred and forty-four churches will then be obliged to get up, for further sleep will be out of the question. For an entire week there will be festivities which will occupy every minute of the time.
To the other festivities of the week will be added the annual fall carnival of the Velled Prophets, with its gorgeous street parades and brilliant ball. Another event will be a great gathering of mayors, representing 1,000 of the chief cities of the United States, who have been invited by the Civic League of St. Louis to join in a conference on problems of city government.

Of most interest to the general public, however, will be the balloon, aeroplano and aeroplano contests. In which Glenn H. Curtiss, the winner of the recent international aeroplano tournament at Rheims, and a number of other noted aviators are to take part. The contests are to be held under the auspices of the Aero Club of St. Louis, which was the host of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race in 1907. The program provides for contests for spherical balloons, aeroplanes, commercial balloons and dirigible balloons. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded for distance, speed and endurance.
During the week there will be five great pageants illustrating the growth of St. Louis from an Indian trading post to a city of 750,000 inhabitants. Four torpedos boats of the Atlantic fleet will be present throughout the celebration and afterward escort President Taft to the deep waterways convention at New Orleans. Each night of the festival there will be brilliant illuminations, music and fireworks.

The program of the week in detail is as follows:

Sunday—Special centennial services in all the city's churches, unveiling of memorial tablets, and exercises and parade of Sunday school children.
Monday—Distance race for small spherical balloons, limited to 40,000 feet capacity. Distance race for large spherical balloons, limited to 80,000 feet capacity. Arrival of visiting mayors and reception in their honor.
Tuesday—Aeroplano flights. Water pageant on the Mississippi River, commemorating the founding of St. Louis. Velled Prophets pageant and ball, with the visiting mayors and special officers as guests of honor.
Wednesday—Aeroplano flights. The official pageant, culminating in the cornerstone laying of new municipal buildings, costing $1,500,000. Banquet to 2,500 guests, including the 1,000 visiting mayors.

Thursday—Industrial pageant, with more than 200 floats, starting at noon and requiring four hours to pass a given point. A costume ball of all nations at the Casino Club.

Friday—Aeroplano flights. Educational, historical and military pageant. In three divisions, soldiers, students, historical floats, soldiers, etc., culminating in the cornerstone laying of the new $1,000,000 public library.

Saturday—Aeroplano (dirigible balloon) race, first prize to be awarded to competitor covering triangular course in least time. Parade of 1,000 automobiles, best of which is a 1900 model ever held in any city in the world.

BELOIT HAS A NEW PITCHER FOR GAME

Loss of St. Paul American Assn. Team Will Hurt for Line City Trolley Bunch Tomorrow.

Sunday's game at York's park between the Janesville and Beloit trolley league teams promises to be hot and faster than the two preceding games. Each team has been victorious once and both will struggle mightily for the honors. Janesville lost last Sunday's game mainly through an error, and they will have the tussle of their lives if they win tomorrow. Beloit has strengthened its lineup by the addition of Pitcher Liles of the American association. He is a wonder for speed and has a high batting average. Pitcher Wilson of Green Bay, who has pitched for Janesville the last two games and has shown considerable skill, will again be in the box for them. The rest of Janesville's lineup will be the same as last Sunday.

The teams will be lined up as follows:

Janesville.	Beloit.
Rowland.....lf	Frieberg
Porter.....cf	Miller
Sullivan.....1b	Ericksen
McAuley.....2b	Hyzer
McAuley.....3b	McAuley
Miller.....ss	Pearce
Wilson.....p	Pearce
Anderson.....c	Liles
	Smith

The game will begin at three o'clock sharp instead of at three-thirty, and interurban cars will leave here at 2:15 instead of 2:30.

MEET TO ORGANIZE ATHLETIC LEAGUE

Sunday School Workers Will Gather at Y. M. C. A. Tuesday to Discuss Church League.

Representatives of all the Sunday schools in the city and their friends have been requested to gather at the Y. M. C. A. building next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. A number of the superintendents have been considering the subject for some time and it is hoped, if possible, to perfect the plans for a Sunday school athletic league. The purpose of the organization is to be to further the interests of the Sunday schools. It is believed that if each Sunday school is represented by an athletic team or squad the boys of a certain age will take more of an interest in the Sunday school work and there will be less difficulty in holding them. It is expected that it will also have the desired effect of increasing the membership attracting new members. The following schools will probably be represented at the meeting Tuesday: Presbyterian, W. H. Grant; Methodist, T. E. Boulton; Baptist, F. E. Sadler; Congregational, J. A. Craig; United Brethren, Rev. L. A. McIntyre; English Lutheran, Rev. W. P. Christy; Trinity Episcopal, H. E. Hanson; Christ church, Rev. John McKinney. Physical Director Birch of the Y. M. C. A. will be present at the meeting to aid in the organization of the league.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Dorcas F. Moore, one of the old residents of Itasca county, who for the past fifteen years has made her home in Janesville, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mayhew London, yesterday, at noon. Mrs. Moore was ninety years of age and was born in Southampton, Mass., February 12, 1819. She was married in 1842, and in 1858, with her husband, came to Wisconsin, settling in Janesville. Three children were born to them, only one of whom, Mrs. London, survives her. The other two, Mrs. Zella Miles, and Mrs. James Moore, died in the years 1873 and 1888, respectively. Her husband passed away in 1902. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Moore leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Nash of South Hadley, Mass., also four grandchildren, Harry and Genevieve London of this city, and Mrs. Dr. Carney of New Point, Mo., and Roy Moore, of Mountain Grove, Mo. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mayhew London, 117 North High street. Rev. J. W. Laughlin will officiate. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Vosburgh, the obsequies of Mrs. Frank Vosburgh were held yesterday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church, Rev. W. A. Gobel officiating. The services were largely attended and the floral offerings were many and beautiful. The four brothers of the deceased, John, Edward, Peter, and Thomas Joyce, were the pallbearers. The remains were interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Lizzie Keller, Mrs. Lizzie Keller died this morning at 6:30 at her home in the town of Janesville. She was forty-six years of age and was born in Iowa.

MILTON: Milton, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Esther Rice died yesterday afternoon after a long illness and much suffering. Deceased was in her eighty-sixth year. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from the house.

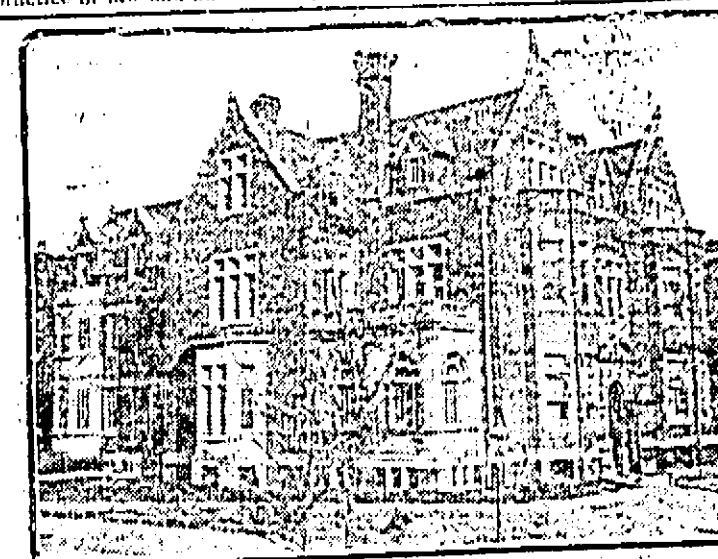

The summer weather yesterday afternoon tempted the "Hicks" and "Towns" alike to enjoy a game of ball. It was a fair exhibition of the national pastime, but lack of stick work kept the score down. The "Towns" were too much for the "Hicks" and won, four to three. Batteries—Crandall, Clarke and Whitton, and Gray and Ingham.

E. O. Jeffrey and M. C. Whitford were at the Jefferson fair with their autos and many Milton people made the trip by rail. Jeffrey returned from her visit in Itasca county, Friday.

Washington, D. C.—An old rivalry is now approaching an exciting stage at Uncle Sam's seat of government. Three different nations—Spain, China and Argentina—are anxious to raise their legations, or branch offices at Washington, to the dignity of embassies. However, no country can thus change the status of its representation in the United States without the consent of our secretary of state, hence the present activity to get Secretary Knox to say "yes" to the proposals of these three friendly governments. China, whose new envoy has not yet arrived, has already a $100,000 home, built and owned by the Chinese government, that is well suited to use as an embassy. Marquis de Villahar, chamberlain to his majesty, the king of Spain, who has just taken up the duties of Spanish minister here, is especially keen to be promoted to the rank of ambassador, and a similar ambition of Argentina has a similar ambition, which is all the more gente because Brazil, Argentina's great rival among the South American republics, a few years ago effected an arrangement whereby she was entitled to an embassy at Miss Columbia's court.

SHATTERS TRACK RECORDS RALPH DE PALMA

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Records that have stood for years in the automobile mile track races have been shattered by Ralph DePalma. In an exhibition here this week the driver of the Fiat cyclone made the 25 miles in 22 minutes 59.35 seconds, bettering the time of 23:25 established by himself at Hendonville in June. In addition the records for 15 and 20 miles were lowered.

The shorter distance records that DePalma broke have stood for nearly five years, unscathed in spite of the many attempts that have been made on them since Barney Oldfield was the creator in the west. The 15-mile record stood at 14 minutes three-fifths seconds, while the 20 mile figures read 18 minutes 45 25 seconds. They were set by Oldfield at Fresno, Cal., December 13, 1904, and at Denver November 5, 1904, respectively. But a week before he set new records for one, three and ten miles at St. Paul, the time being 59.45 sec-various distances from one to 50 miles. DePalma is not old in the racing game, but in just one and one half years has made the most sensational climb to the front ever made by an automobile driver.

The accident that knocked DePalma occurred April 19 1908, five days before the Dixieland road race. DePalma was then mechanic for the Albert Campbell who was to drive the Allen-Kincaid car in the big race. Campbell was badly injured in the accident and DePalma switched to the Cyclone and has driven world's records for racing cars that are now officially accepted by the A. A. A.

Chicago and Northwestern. DISPATCHERS AND ENGINEERS MAY BE SHIFTED ABOUT SOON

Some radical changes seem to be in prospect in the make-up of switch engine and dispatching crews from the looks of a bulletin posted in the Chicago shops yesterday afternoon. The bulletin states that two positions as night dispatcher at Janesville are open for application. This will mean that those engineers who have been dispatching nights will probably be given regular positions, in all likelihood on the switch engine. Although nothing is certain in regard to the real purpose of the bulletin, this would seem to be the logical conclusion for it would give several young engineers regular jobs in the yards and leave a few older engineers on the board for extra work on the road.

Engineer Seldmore and Fireman Gibson of the North End pool caught the gravel train this morning.

Engineer Lewis returned to work on 534 this morning. Engineer Cole, who relieved him yesterday, is on the switch engine today. Fireman Harkshaw, who took Engineer Goodman's place on the same runs yesterday, reported for work on the board.

New train cards for the Wisconsin Division made their appearance today and will go into effect tomorrow. No radical changes have been made in the trains that pass through this city.

Switchman Hor took Tom Connors' place at the Five Points last night. It is thought that Switchman O'Grady, who has been tending switches at the belt line, will take John Barry's place tomorrow.

Fireman Fleming has reported for work on the board and was first out this afternoon.

Machinist Frank Drew is laying off today.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Engineer Callahan is switching today with engine 845 in place of the 1044 which is in the house for repairs.

A work train in charge of Engineer Cornelius, Fireman Duxat, Conductor Corson and brakemen George Barry went west this morning.

Fireman Williams went off on number 20 this morning with Engineer Wilkinson.

John Dalton returned this evening from a trip to Green Bay and Menominee.

Headaches Caused By Eyestrain

Many suffer from headache and nervousness that do not suspect the cause. The nerves that control the eye have a direct connection with the most vital parts of the human system. Continual strain on these nerves keeps them in such a weakened condition that they have to call on the force of other nerves to keep them supplied. In that way the strain is carried to other nerves, and will, in time, exhaust them all. Properly fitted glasses will prevent this strain and give the system a chance to build up.

Many have been relieved here. Why not you?

Gwendolyn made the mistake of her life when she turned down Charlie and married Henry. The latter was a handsome fellow, and had many attractive qualities, but he was fond of the cold bottles, and everybody knew it. The sugar of the village wagged their gray beards and said that there would be the mischief to pay—and there was. Gwendolyn thought that she could hold Henry steady, as a million other girls have thought, to their undoing; but when the novelty of matrimony wore off, Henry turned in to punish the bottles. He just simply let go all holds, and his conduct became a scandal. One evening he was romping blithely along a quiet street, headed for his favorite booze palson, when Charlie, his late rival, stopped him and said: "Henry, I am going to give your head the severest punishment it ever got, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith; and I am going to repeat the operation every time I hear that you have been drinking." Whereupon, without indulging in further platitudes or figures of speech, Charlie set to work most adroitly, and punched up Henry's block until it was a sight to be seen. That happened a good many weeks ago—and it really happened—and a repetition of the corrective measure has not been necessary. Henry has become so virtuous that people are beginning to refer to him as a shining example; and Gwendolyn has ceased sipping tears all over the furniture. Which, true story, shows that a man can quit drinking, under proper conditions.

AUDITOR PERSON OF INTERIOR DEPT. RESIGNS

Asserts South Dakota Senators Have Demanded His "Decapitation"—Lieut. Gov. Shober Succeeds.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Robert S. Person, auditor for the interior department, has tendered his resignation to take effect on December 1. He declares that the two South Dakota senators have been working for "his official decapitation" for political reasons and that rather than further embarrass the president he has decided to resign.

"I have tendered my resignation to take effect December 1, 1909," said Mr. Person. "For several months past the president has been greatly embarrassed by a political situation in which I am a factor. Since his inauguration the two senators from South Dakota have been persistently demanding my official decapitation for political reasons—although all of us profess to be Republicans. I have decided to remove the president from further embarrassment incident to the industry of the senators from my home state in demanding my separation from the service."

"It is needless to say," he continued, "that hereafter I shall enjoy a freedom of expression and action in public and political affairs which are denied me in my present position."

Lieut. Gov. Howard C. Shober of Highmore, S. D., has been appointed Mr. Person's successor.

Thousands See Suicide.

New York, Oct. 2.—In sight of several thousand persons assembled to view the Hudson-Fulton naval parade, John H. Bell killed himself by leaping from the top of the Riverside Drive viaduct, 100 feet high. A short time ago nervous trouble caused him to resign his position.

Jealousy Causes Double Tragedy.

Suicide Facts.

According to a compilation recently published, there were 7,643 suicides in Prussia in 1908. The most remarkable point about the statistics is that there were more suicides in summer than in winter. Advice for Young Ladies.

It is superfluous to decorate women highly for early youth; youth is itself a decoration. We mistakenly adorn most that part of life which least requires it, and neglect to provide for that which will want it most.—Hannah More.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

At a certain large factory in the middle west," says Henry M. Hyde

in "Success Magazine," "the workmen were threatening to strike. The manager of the company called them to gather in a great mass meeting. Two months ago," he said, "I was offered three million dollars for this plant. The offer came from the trust. It was a tempting one. If it had been accepted I should have had an income of fifty thousand dollars a year for life.

"I greatly desire to travel and see all the corners of the world. I should like to live for a time in Paris and London. I have built up this business from nothing, and it seemed to me I had fairly earned the right to retire and enjoy the fruits of my work.

But I learned that if the trust came into possession of this plant it was their intention to close it down permanently; to concentrate all their manufacturing in other plants, already established.

"That decided me to decline the offer.

Many of you men own your homes in this city; your life-long friends and associates live here; your children are in the schools. To force

you to pull up stakes and move away

—as you would have had to do—would have meant a great loss in many ways. It seemed to me that I owed you a duty. I refused the offer. Now

I ask you to play fair with me. I was loyal to you. Be loyal to me."

"Whether specious or not the appeal was effective, and it well illustrates

another one of the moral ideas

which have kept many men in business

against their own personal preferences."

This little incident presents a side of human nature not often revealed

because the average employer is not tasted, as yet there are years of depression and hard times when men who furnish the money and brain necessary to keep the wheels moving,

feel like giving up the struggle, and more of them would do it but for the men dependent on them for work and a livelihood.

Of course it is true that many small industries have been absorbed by conditions, and many more have been driven out of business by competition which they were unable to meet. Under these conditions the employer has no choice. He is simply a victim to the over-changing demands of business which in these days

are so intense as to frequently result in revolution.

A great deal of sympathy is expressed for this class of men. The Standard Oil company is denounced from one end of the country to the other, not because of inferior goods

or service, but because a few small producers have been crowded out of business.

Almost all combinations are denounced for the same reason, and the effort to regulate trusts and conditions by law is the outgrowth of this sentiment. The ludicrous part of the situation is that public loyalty, so far as business patronage is concerned,

is an unknown quality.

If the Standard Oil company should open a retail house in Janesville, or any other town, and sell oil 2 cents

below the market price, the regular dealer would be ignored. There is no sentiment in business, and no loyalty

beyond the dollar standard.

A great army of people flock to the mail order houses at the expense of their neighbors who are struggling to make an honest living behind the counter. The bargain counter is more attractive than friendship or loyalty to the home town and the men who help to support it.

This is human nature, the world

over, and the men in business recognize it, and have long since discovered that appeals to sentiment are useless.

Laws, however, stringent, will not change these conditions, so long as selfishness is the controlling spirit.

The farmer who is absorbed with a mail order catalog is as forgetful of the merchant in the country town, as is the lady in the inland city when studying the Monday bargains in the Sunday paper.

The question of loyalty, however, is more significant than sentiment, for it represents a principle vital to success in every life. The man who works under direction will always be a representative of a large class, increasing in volume every year, for concentration of effort is the watch-

word and combinations will increase in number as time goes by.

The opportunity for young men to engage in business for themselves are less than they were in years ago, but these opportunities have been replaced by others more inviting.

The demand today is for men who can do things in every department of work. This demand is free from the investment of capital and all the uncertainties attached. There is a surplus of money and a scarcity of the right kind of men.

This shortage can only be met by cultivating a spirit of loyalty in the part of the young men who are coming to the front, for next to honesty,

loyalty in service is the stepping-stone to success. The boy who forgets the clock in efforts to forward the interests of his employer, is always the boy who is marked for promotion.

It matters not how menial the service, or how obscure the corner in which he toils, honest and loyal effort is as sure of reward as time is to pass.

In the large cities the employees of banking houses are under the eye of a detective when on duty. Their associations and habits are carefully

noted and recorded.

Young men do not realize it, but the eye of a cold, exacting business world is ever on them. If they enter the saloon occasionally for a social glass, they are marked and the record confronts them when least expected. If work is slighted, they fail to find employment when out of a job,

and so in a thousand ways the unwritten law of business tries them

out. Someone said recently:

"Many an employee who would be shocked at the thought of telling his employer a lie with his lips is lying

every day in the quality of his work.

In his dishonest service, in the rotten hours he is slipping into it, in shrinking, in his indifference to his employer's interests, it is just as dishonest to express deception in poor work, in shirking, as to express it with the lips, yet I have known office boys, who could not be induced to tell their employer a direct lie, to steal his time when on an errand, to hide away

during working hours to smoke a cigar

or take a nap, not realizing,

perhaps, that lies can be acted as well as told, and that acting a lie may be even worse than telling one."

Be a loyal worker, true to yourself, and the future will reward you. The prizes of life were never more abundant than today, and they line the pathway of every honest toiler.

Swarming Bees' Scout.

Swarms of bees are sometimes compelled to take refuge in very remarkable shelters. A peculiar and instructive instance was observed by the writer in the spring of 1908. The swarm flew over a large vineyard which contained few buildings. One of these buildings was constructed of hollow concrete blocks. The swarm flew directly toward a small hole in one of the blocks and disappeared in the interior. No doubt the swarm had rosted on a tree or shrub on the preceding day and had sent out

I make two sets of teeth for lots of people who are wise enough to have the second set in reserve for any accident or unexpected happening to their regular set.

One man lost his teeth out of a car window—"Shoozoo". One party lost his over the side of a boat.

ALBERT RUBIN HAS BEEN VICTIMIZED

Endorsed Two Worthless Checks for New-Found Friend Named Walter Christensen.

Albert Rubin, a young farmer living not far from Janesville and a former resident of this city, will probably have to suffer for helping a new-found friend named Walter Christensen out of a financial pinch. Christensen, who was at work in the vicinity of Rubin's home, pretended that he was a time-keeper for the Mandt Wagon Co. of Stoughton, enjoying a leave of absence in the country. He took a liking to Rubin and after deciding not to resume the duties of his Stoughton post, offered to help the latter get the job. While in Janesville last Tuesday Christensen broke the said tidings that he was just out of ready money. Of course he had a bank account at Stoughton, but it would be necessary to get someone to identify him in order to procure the necessary cash. Rubin thought that little difficulty could be easily remedied and endorsed a check for $10 made out in favor of James W. Reed and another for a smaller amount payable to Frank J. Kane. After that Mr. Christensen just naturally faded from Rubin's line of vision. Now comes word from the First National bank of Stoughton to Mr. Reed that the $10 check he cashed was worthless as Mr. Christensen had no account with that institution. Mr. Rubin will be called upon to make good this deficiency and was here today to ask the police to lay violent hands on Mr. Christensen wherever he may be found.

Napoleon's Name.
A Greek scholar has called attention to a very curious coincidence about the name of Napoleon. If you take away the first letter of his name, you have "napoleon," take away the first letter of that word, and you have "poleon," do this successively down to the last syllable, and you have "leon," "eon" and "on." Put these several words together in this order, Napoleon on oleon leon eon poleon polon, and you have a Greek phrase the literal translation of which is "Napoleon the lion of peoples, went about destroying cities."—Unidentified.

Preserving Canadian Fish.
In compliance with the new Canadian regulations, American fishermen must now obtain licenses, and the rule limiting the day's catch to eight black bass to a fisherman will be rigorously enforced. In the Bay of Quinte, Ontario, a small cruiser is to do duty in enforcing the law. It is said that some yachts in past seasons took from 50 to 150 bass in a day's fishing.

Bought by King George in 1771.
The old house standing on the corner of Dativia and Roosevelt streets, New York, one of the few buildings left intact as a relic of colonial times, is about to be torn down to make way for an apartment house. In the year 1771 King George III. bought the house and property for the sum of £75. The deed of sale, with the signature of the king attached, is now in the possession of the present owner, Thomas Farrell, of 72 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street. "COUNTY FAIR" WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Entertainment Given by C. E. Society of Congregational Church Attracted a Large Crowd.

There was a good attendance at the "county fair" given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society at the Congregational church parlors last evening and all the attractions, from the vegetable and fruit exhibit to the Hindu "bridal" chamber and Capt. Peary Cook's baby-stereopticon trip to the North Pole were well patronized.

The fortune-teller drove a thriving trade and there were cheers for the high dive, the efforts of the Pecos quartet, and the other varied features. The also handsome young ladies in the human "cane you ring" doll-rack had a hard time dodging the embroidery hoops and the forfeits, paid in candy kisses, were numerous. About $20 net was realized by the society.

The Baptist young ladies are planning a mid-winter fair along similar lines for the near future.

thoroughness of the manual training and trade schools.

"Now then, that training of accuracy. In my conduct of the farm I am confronted with men who have no conception of accurate work. In the employ of seventy people in my printing office I am constantly confronted with men and women who have gone through the high school and never had conceived the idea of doing things accurately.

"I have a very strong opinion that the high school of today should be made of more service to the common man, to the men who will never go any farther. Think for a moment what a vast number of your pupils stop at the eighth grade. Think how that eighth grade school is a king compared with the country school. Ninety-five per cent of the farmers all over the state have never had any other schooling but that of the country district school. The state never did anything for those people. I never did what it ought to have done. Now then, at the eighth grade, as I said, a great majority of the people stop. A great majority of the students stop, and but a small fraction go through and graduate. If we graduate in a year twenty-five scholars out of two hundred; if we graduate, you see, one-eighth, we think we are doing excellent work. Now, when I talk with those young men and ask them why they do not go through and graduate they tell me some things that I do not hear elsewhere. 'Why,' they say, 'we don't see any need for it. We don't see any use in it.' Their hunger to get into the practical things of life convinces them that time will be thrown away. Now, I wish something could be done by which the great body of students in the high school could be convinced of the value of graduating in the high school, even though you may be pursuing studies that practically are worthless in many particulars, but I feel as though something should be done with the high school to convince the scholars and their parents that it of itself is a local necessity, that it should subserve the interests of the local community; that it should subserve the interests of the local community to a larger degree than it does and to that extent I do deprecate its being subservient to the university. I believe that the local high school should establish its own curriculum and that it should be absolutely without interference on the part of the university or any of its officers."

Sarcasm Probably Wasted.

One of the wildest of Parisians, in a friend's box at the opera, was listening to "Thaïs," or rather trying to do so, for his hostess talked incessantly and drowned the music with her shrill voice. At the end of the opera she invited him to the next subscribers' night. "With pleasure," replied he; "I have never heard you in 'Faust!'"

Fraud in Chinese Wax.

British manufacturers of blacking purchase large crates of beeswax. The beeswax imported from China is in large cubes, each done up in a written guaranty of purity and quality. Nevertheless, deep down in the middle of the crates, are lumps of substance resembling European brick, trimmed to the exact shape of a genuine packet of beeswax. In other cases cubes when unwrapped are still apparently genuine wax, but on being sliced open are found to contain a large core of shavings, dirt and general floor sweepings of a busy factory.

Mock Duck Egg.
The mock duck egg so commonly seen in Chinatown is coated with a mixture of lime, clay, spleen and rice husk, which excludes air. After many moons the yolk turns dark green or black. The older and blacker the better it is, according to the Chinese taste. It never is absent from great ceremonial dinners, boiled.

On Killing Snakes.
The fact that some snakes eject poison against their enemies is held to justify their indiscriminate extermination. We fail to see how. They did not have the choice of their means of defense; they necessarily took what the Lord gave them and they net as instinct directs.

Brakeman Defied Heat.
Arthur Morris, a brakeman on the Wabash Excelsior Springs local train, made a cot for cool sleeping during the hot days of summer, even in daytime, says the Kansas City Star. On a framework above the cot he draped mosquito netting. Between his railroad "runs" he went into this fly-proof cage for rest.

THREE ST. LOUIS STAR MEN
JIMMY McALEER, CENTER WITH VETERAN JACK POWELL AT LEFT AND YOUNGSTER BAILEY AT RIGHT, PITCHERS OF ST. LOUIS AMERICANS.

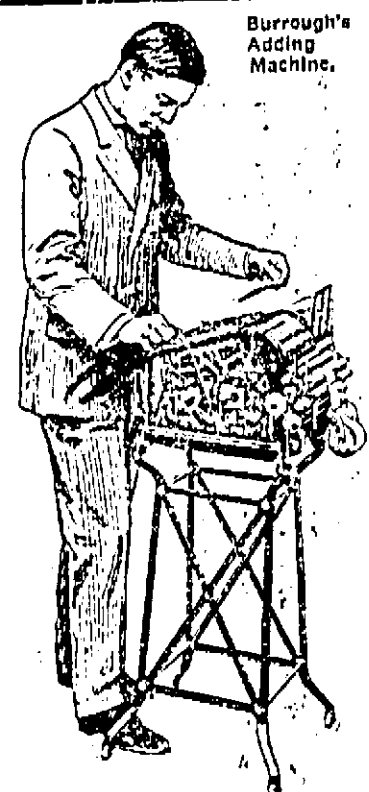

THREE FACTORS IN THE PIRATES' PENNANT WINNING

Willis, Camnitz and Gibson are the big factors of the winning battery work of the Pirates in the landing of the 1909 pennant. Willis is the veteran finger of the Pittsburgh staff and has been a consistent winner this season. Camnitz is a younger twirler. He has been with the Pirates for two seasons, but did little in 1908. Last spring he began to come fast and won nine games before suffering defeat.

Since then he has continued at a consistent clip so that at the present time this pair rank well up in the National league twirling staff. Camnitz, with 22 won and 6 lost, takes fourth place, while Willis, with 21 won and 9 lost, is thirteenth. It is these two that will be called upon to do the bulk of the pitching in the world's series.

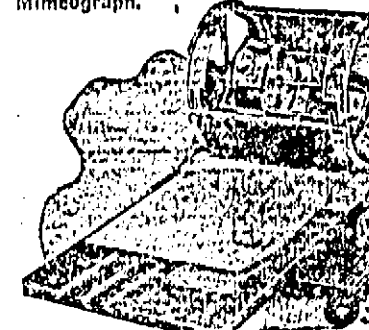

Gibson has caught a record breaking stretch of games this season, having worked in every contest since May 5. This catcher is one of the headiest and huskiest in the business. He is also feared as one of the most accurate throwers.

Burrough's Adding Machine.

Modern Filing System.

Southern Wisconsin Business College, Janesville's Up-to-Date Business Training School

Many office methods that were in vogue five years ago are obsolete today. Loose-leaf books are taking the place of the old style bound books. Touch Typewriting is taking the place of the old sight method. Writerpresses, Mimeographs and Burrough's Adding Machines are finding a place in offices where a large volume of business is done. Card Indexing and Vertical Filing are rapidly coming in to favor. It naturally follows then that if you want to be qualified to do the office work of today you must enter a school that will teach you how to use these late office methods. We are the first school in Southern Wisconsin to install all of these late office devices, and so we are preparing the young people who come to us to better advantage than any similar school.

So great is the demand for our graduates that we can fill but one-half of the calls we receive, notwithstanding the fact that we enrolled almost 200 students last year.

Will you enter a school that will not only prepare you for the office work of today and place you in a good position or refund you your tuition, or do you prefer to enter the other kind and take chances?

Our courses include FREE INSTRUCTION on all of the latest office machines and devices. Our tuition is no greater and is the same to all. The choice rests with you.

Perhaps you cannot begin a course of study in our Day Classes. Why not enroll in our

Evening Classes

The same subjects are taught. The same teachers employed. The same modern methods are used.

EVERY MONDAY, TUESDAY and THURSDAY from 7:30 to 9:30.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

ONE hears a great deal lately about the danger of the public drinking cup. Thousands and tens of thousands of people are buying anti-septic cups which is excellent both for the anti-septic cup trade and for the people.

But the same people, most of them, are taking absolutely no care in the handling of almost as great a germ heater as the public drinking cup, namely money, which is excellent for the medical trade, but not for the people.

An immigration inspector told me that I would never want to handle money without gloves if I knew where some of it came from. He said that when the immigrants were asked to produce their money a great many of them would undo their clothing and bring out nauseating wads of seventy bills that had been lying next their skins over places they started from their house towns some weeks before. It may be some of those very bills that you handled today.

I, myself, once saw a Chinaman take the nickel for carfare from his ear. It may be that very nickel that you gave your little boy to put in his bank.

Considering these things can we be too careful about thoroughly washing our hands and teaching our children to do the same after handling money?

"If she only exerted enough self control I cannot help thinking she could prevent those nervous movements," said a woman who does not know what nerves means, of a girl who is on the verge of nervous prostration.

Perhaps you haven't ever said just that, but haven't you ever wondered a little bit at some friend who has nervous ways? Haven't you ever thought, "When I feel nervous I control myself. If he did the same he wouldn't get the way he does."

If you have, let me tell you something I learned the other day. There are muscles that can be controlled but there are also muscles over which we have absolutely no control.

They are called involuntary muscles and the mind has no more power to order them to do this or that than you would have to call control if your telephone wire were cut.

It is when these involuntary muscles get out of order that people get nervous and have nervous prostration and all the self control in the world doesn't do one bit of good.

It's a childish scheme I suppose but I couldn't do without it.

Perhaps if you are troubled with a treacherous memory that lets you forget in the morning what you were so sure last night you wouldn't forget, you'd like to try it too.

When I think of anything that I want to be sure to do I register my thought not on a brain cell that I may not peek into for the next week, but in a note book that I may not open for the same length of time, but right in the open where I can't fail to see it.

If I'm at my dresser I turn my pin cushion upside down. If I'm at my desk I turn my Blunkin's face to the wall.

And I don't let myself get them straight until I've done what I wanted to make myself do.

An eccentric performance. Maybe, but a mighty useful one.

IN THE BOUDOIR

The use of cucumber juice as a bleach that softens and at the same time whitens the skin cannot be over-estimated. Now, before it is too late, the juice should be bottled for use during the winter. To do this cut the cucumber in two pieces without peeling it. Pound the pieces to a paste and heat to the boiling point, pour into hot bottles while at the boiling point and seal. When wanted use in the proportion of one ounce of juice to two of water and sponge the face and hands with it before going to bed. It can be used freely as there are no harmful results.

Cucumber Cream.—Where the skin needs massage as well as the bleach, a cream may be made which will remove tan, freckles and at the same time assist in massaging away wrinkles.

Cucumber Juice 1 oz.
Almond oil 2 oz.
White wax 1/2 oz.
Spermaceti 1/2 oz.
Melt the oil, wax and spermaceti together in a double boiler, add the cucumber juice and beat hard with an egg which will cool. A few drops of oil of rose or oil of violet may be used if the perfume is desired.

For the Teeth.—The use of common baking soda as a wash for the mouth and teeth before going to bed is a habit worthy of cultivation. All acidity is counteracted and the teeth are in less danger from tartar and decay. One woman who has beautiful clean shining teeth confided to me that she washed them once a week with soap.

Every child should be so taught to clean the teeth that the need of it will be as much felt as the need for smooth hair or clean hands.

Highest Chimney in World.
The loftiest chimney in the world was recently put into service at the large smelting works at Great Falls, Mont., where it will serve to carry off the gases from the greater part of the large plant. The chimney, which is built of brick, is 506 feet in height above the ground. It is 50 feet in diameter at the top, and increases gradually in diameter to the base, says Scientific American. The flue includes a dust chamber in which vertically-hung wires serve to take out the dust from the smoke. The dust is removed from the wires by shaking mechanism and falls in hoppers in the floor, from which it is loaded into cars in a pit below.

Problem of Navigation.
A solution of the problem of navigating streams in which shallow and deep water are alternately encountered is suggested by Mr. C. J. Bartlett of New Orleans. He proposes the construction of a submerging ship, which is designed to carry two barges when in deep water, and, on encountering shallow water will submerge, float the barges free, and tow them through the shallow water reaches. Each barge is of 1,500 tons capacity and their loaded draft is eight feet. The loaded draft of the ship is 15 feet and in the light condition she would draw six feet.

A Woman's Limitations.
It was Thomas de Quincey who said: "Woman, later, there are some things which you do not, execute as well as your brother, man; no, nor over will. Pardon me if I doubt whether you will ever produce a great poet from your choir, or a Mozart or a Pindar or a Michelangelo, or a great philosopher, or a great scholar. By which last is meant not one who depends simply upon an indefinite memory, but also on an infinite and electrical power of combination; bringing together from the four winds like the angel of the reformation, what also were dust from dead men's bones, into the unity of breathing life. If you can create yourselves into any of these great creators, why have you not?"

CHURCH MEETING

ANNUAL RALLY AND REUNION

HELD THURSDAY EVENING.

EARLY DAYS OF CHURCH

Recalled and Described in an Interesting Manner by Mrs. Tullar.

Other Fine Talks Given.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Oct. 1.—Fully two hundred people participated last evening

in the rally and reunion at the Methodist church and the event was one that will not soon be forgotten. At halfpast six o'clock a sumptuous repast was served to the company who were seated at long tables, prettily decorated with flowers. Miss Mad-

Stevens acted in the capacity of con-

fessress in a most acceptable manner

and made many pleasant remarks

while introducing the speakers of the evening. Mrs. John Tullar was the first speaker and responded to "The Good Old Days" and told of the work which the pioneers did in organizing the church. Her talk was as follows:

"Although not a firm believer in the idea advanced by some people that all good souls are dead Indians, and that all the good days are the old days, still I must admit that as the shadows lengthen in our 'life

Journey' we are apt to cling closer to the old friendships and the old loves than to those found in later years. When invited to speak of the old days, to you tonight, my face and memories come trooping before my mind, and I would fain recall some of them for you. I will remember the building of this church, and recall many of those who labored so hard to build the new church, among them being Rev. Dr. La. May, Uncle

Jacob West, whose kindly voice and smile were a benediction in themselves. A. G. Fish, Ira Jones and family, John Dawson, Samuel Caldwell-

der, John T. Baker, Rev. Eliah Robinson, and many others, who have with those mentioned gone to their reward.

How they worked for the 'Master's cause,' and how happy they were in doing it. Of the younger ones, the faces of many are before my mind.

Theodore Robinson, who so many of you remember as the gifted artist, his brother, Hamlin, John West, Boyd

Jones and Lattie Robinson, whose splendid voices I can almost hear

now; the West girls, Clara and Lina, who also gave me pleasure with their singing; I wonder if it was long ago that yesterday that we were all here together. James West and his lovely wife were always ready to help in everything for the good of the church. Charley Clifford and his wife were helpers too. L. T. Pullen, whom you all respected so sincerely,

and his wife, who was with him, heart

and hand, in all things, for the welfare of the church, will not be forgotten. Sidney Smith and wife and Mr.

and Mrs. Baker were always ready helpers, and of the quartette Mrs.

Baker only is waiting for the call over the river. Elder Robinson was always the friend of the young people,

and many a happy couple was made husband and wife by him. One couple came to him, and after the ceremony, the groom asked what he was to pay him. Elder Robinson said:

"The law allows me two dollars." "Alright," said the young man, "here is twenty cents and that will make you

$2.20." Elder Robinson used to tell this story to his young folks, and laugh until the tears rolled down his cheeks. He promised to marry Will Stevens for a peck of corn, and I think he must have received his pay

in full, for the marriage still holds firm and happy. I can mention but a few of those whom you all honor and revere and who have done so much to make the present day so good for the workers of today to live in and enjoy. Dear friends, of the old days, and of the new, absent or present, I hail you all, with love and heartily good wishes. Mrs. Nellie Gilbert gave a charming talk on "The Early Days of the Church," in which she told how much they were appreciated and the benefit the young people received from their example.

Homer Potter, who has been an ardent church worker, and who was superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school for thirty-six years, gave the reply. Mrs. Isaac

Sharman gave a toast "To Our Young People" and touched on the important part they take in the work of the church. Miss Hazel North replied in a very pleasant way, contending that age is not measured by the years we live, and many that have passed the allotted three score and ten are still

"young people." O. S. Shepard read several very interesting letters from former pastors. There was one from

Rev. C. E. Hiltner, who preached here

more than thirty years ago; also letters from Rev. J. S. Davis, Rev.

William Rollins, Rev. Webster Miller

and Rev. James Churn. Mrs. Lew

Van Wert then read a letter from

Mrs. J. W. Osborne of Excelsior,

Minn., in which she told of the Methodist church in olden days. A letter filled with reminiscences from Mrs.

Della Van Valen Carrol of Leon, Kan.,

was read by Mrs. Hobbitt and a letter from James West of Elgin, Ill., giving the early history of the church was read by Mrs. Gertrude Eager. One of the enjoyable contributions to the program was a short talk by W. H.

Walker. Concluding remarks relative to the work of the coming year were made by Rev. T. W. North and at the close of the meeting all sang

"Hail to the Chief."

Dr. Colony, Mr. and Mrs. Burr

Tolles and Little son, Donald, and

Mrs. Locke were also Janesville visitors today.

Those who were here yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. William

Stewart were Mr. and Mrs. William

Whole of Bellevue, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. Walter

McKell of Juda, Bert Collins, Colo-

CHAPTER XII.

On the morning after the transaction last described, Van Torp's attention was attracted by a sensational "scoop" about a thief and a ruby worth $50,000. Some disaffected colleague in London had known, or cleverly guessed, where the stone was that had been stolen from Mr. Pinney's, and had informed the police; the sleek-looking young fellow who walked directly into the arms of the plain-clothes man waiting for him on the pier in New York, the stone had been found sewn up in his waistcoat, and his pleasant career of liberty had ended abruptly in a cell.

Mr. Van Torp whistled softly as he read the account a second time. Then he neatly cut the column out of the paper, folded it with great precision, smoothed it with care and placed it in his pocket-book next to a cheap little photograph of Mme. de Cordova as "Juliet," which he had bought in a music shop in New York the day after he had carried her for the first time, and had heard in his pocket ever since.

He took up the mutilated newspaper and looked up and down the columns, and among other information which he gathered in a few moments was the fact that Logothetti's yacht had "passed Capt. Saint Vincent, going east, owner and party on board." The previous telegram had not escaped him, and as he had entertained any doubts as to the destination of the Erlina, they vanished now. She was certainly bound for the Mediterranean. He remembered having heard that many steam yachts coming from England put into Gibraltar for coal and fresh provisions, coal being cheaper there than in French and Italian ports, and he thought it very probable that the Erlina would do the same; he also made some deductions which need not be explained yet. The only one worth mentioning here was that Logothetti would be likely to hear in Gibraltar that the ruby had been found and was on its way back to England, and that as he would know that Margaret would be anxious about it, since he had already given it to her, he would hardly let the occasion of communicating with her go by. As for writing from Gibraltar to any place whatsoever in the hope that a letter will arrive in less than a week, it is sheer folly. Mr. Van Torp had never tried it, and supposed it possible, as it looked, but he was tolerably sure that Logothetti would telegraph first, and had perhaps done so already, for the news of his passing Cape Saint Vincent was already 24 hours old.

This was precisely what had happened. When Mr. Van Torp opened his door, he came upon Margaret and Mrs. Rushmore on the landing, on the point of going out for a walk, and a servant had just brought the prima donna a telegram which she was reading aloud, so that the American could not help hearing her.

"Cruising till wanted," she read quickly. "Ruby found. Address, yacht Erlina, Naples."

She heard Van Torp close his door, though she had not heard him open it, and turning round she found herself face to face with him. Her eyes were sparkling with anger.

"Very sorry," he said. "I couldn't help hearing."

"It's of no consequence, for I should have told you," Margaret answered briefly.

He argued well for himself from her tone and manner, but he chose to show that he would not force his company upon her just then, when she was in a visible rage, and instead of stopping to exchange mere words he passed the two ladies hat in hand, and bowing rather low, after his manner, he went quietly downstairs.

Margaret watched him till he disappeared.

"I like that man," she said, as if to herself, but audibly. "I cannot help it."

Mrs. Rushmore was more than delighted, but had tact enough not to make any answer to a speech which had "probably not been meant for her ears."

"Perhaps," she said, "you would rather not go out just yet, my dear."

Margaret was grateful for the suggestion, and they turned back into their room.

Meanwhile Van Torp had reached the door of the hotel, and found Lady Maud standing there with her parasol up, for the sun was streaming in.

"I was waiting for you," she said simply, as soon as he reached her side, and she stepped out into the street. "I thought you would come down, and I wanted to speak to you, for I did not get a chance last night. They were both watching me, probably because they thought I was ill, and I had to chatter like a magpie to keep up appearances."

"You didn't very well," Van Torp said. "If I had not seen your face at the window when I got out of the automobile yesterday I shouldn't have guessed there was anything wrong."

"But there is something very wrong—something I can hardly bear to think of, though I must, until I know the truth."

They turned into the first deserted street they came to.

"I dare say I can give a guess at what it is," Van Torp answered gravely. "I want to see him alone yesterday on purpose, before he started, and I must say, if it wasn't for the married girl's face, I'd feel pretty sure."

"He had a beard when I married him, and it was like that—just like that!"

Lady Maud's voice shook audibly, for she felt cold, even in the sunshine.

"I didn't know," Van Torp answered. "That alters the case. If we're not mistaken, what can I do to help you? Let's see."

Let's see. Van Torp looked at him, through the window, as if he were looking at a picture.

"Yes. But the window was open, and it's not high above the ground, and my eyes are good. He took off his hat when he said good-by to you, and I saw his face as distinctly as I see yours. When you've been married to a man—she laughed harshly—'you cannot be easily mistaken about him, when you're as near as that! That is the man I married, I'm intimately convinced of it, but I must be quite sure. Do you understand?'"

"Of course. If he's really Leven, he's even a better actor than I used to think he was. If he's not, the resemblance is just about the most extraordinary thing! It's true I only saw him three or four times in my life, but I saw him to look at him then, and the last time I did, when he made the row in Hare court, he was doing most of the talking, so I remember his voice."

"There's only one difficulty," Lady Maud said. "Some one else may have been killed last June. It may even have been the pickpocket who had stolen his pocket-book. Such things have happened, or do in books! But this is certainly the man you met in New York and who sold you the stone you gave me, is he not?"

"Oh, certainly. And that was at the end of July, and Leven was killed late in June."

"Yes. That only leaves a month for him to have been to Asia—that's absurd."

"Absolutely, and entirely impossible," interjected Mr. Van Torp.

"One of two things. Either this man is your husband, and if he is, he's not the man who found the rubies in Asia. Or else, if he is that man, he's not Leven. I wish that heathen girl had been here yesterday! She could have told in a minute. She'd better have been here anyway than cutting around the Mediterranean with that fellow Logothetti!"

"Yes," Lady Maud said gravely. "But about myself—if Leven is alive, what is my position—I mean I don't really quite know where I am, do I?"

"Anybody but you would have thought of marrying again already," observed Mr. Van Torp, looking up sideways in her eyes, for she was taller than he. "Then you'd really be in a bad fix, wouldn't you? But as it is, I don't see that it makes much difference. The man's going under a false name, so he doesn't mean to claim you as his wife, nor to try to get a divorce again, as he did before. He's just going to be somebody else for his own good, and he'll get married that way, maybe. That's his business, not yours. I don't suppose you're going to get up in church and forbid the banns, are you?"

"I would, like a shot!" said Lady Maud. "So would you, I'm sure! Think of the other woman!"

"That's so," answered Van Torp without enthusiasm. "However, we've got to think about you and the present, and decide what we'll do. I suppose the best thing is for me to put him off with some excuse, so that you can come on the yacht."

"Please do nothing of the sort!" cried Lady Maud.

"But I want you to come," objected her friend.

"I mean to come. Do you think I'm afraid to meet him?"

Van Torp looked at her in some surprise, and not without admiration.

"There isn't anybody like you, anyway," he said quietly. "But there's going to be a circus on that ship if he's Leven," he added. "If he makes a fuss I'll read the riot act and lock him up."

"Oh, no," answered Lady Maud, who was used to Mr. Van Torp's familiar vocabulary. "Why need there be any trouble? You've not told him I am coming, you say. Very well. If he sees me suddenly after he has been on board a little while, he'll certainly betray himself, and then I shall be sure. Leven is a man of the world—'was or is—he—God knows which! But if it is he, and he doesn't want to be recognized, he'll behave as if nothing had happened, after the first moment of surprise. At least I shall be certain. I must be positively sure whether Leven is alive or dead, for what I have got back in these last two months is my whole life. A mere recognition at first sight and at ten yards is not enough. It may be only a marvellous resemblance, for they say every one has a 'double' somewhere in the world."

"They used to say, too, that if you met your 'double' one of you would die," observed Van Torp. "Those things are all stuff and nonsense, of course. I was just thinking. Well," he continued, "if you decide to come on the yacht, and if the man doesn't show away, we shall know the truth in three or four days from now, and that's a comfort. And even if he turns out to be Leven, maybe we can manage something."

Lady Maud chose not to ask what her friend thought he could "manage;" for she had glanced at his face when he had spoken, and though it was half turned away from her, she saw his expression, and it would have scared a nervous person. She did not like him to be in that mood, and was sorry that she had brought him to it.

But Mr. Van Torp, who was a strong man, and had seen more than one affair in his ranching days, could not help thinking how uncommonly easy it would be to pick up Count Kralinsky and drop him overboard on a dark night next week, when the Lansdowne Lass would be doing 22 knots, and there might be a little weather about to drown the splash.

ALLEGED WATER SITE TRUST

PINCHOT ASSERTS ONE IS NOW IN PROCESS OF FORMATION.

CONGRESS MUST INTERVENE

Draconic Action Necessary to Defeat Power Grabbers—Forester Will Continue to Advocate Policies for Which He Has Fought.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Clifford Pinchot, chief of the bureau of forestry, who has just returned from an extended western trip, unequivocally asserts that a monopoly is now in the formation process, whose object it is to obtain possession of the water power sites of the country.

Mr. Pinchot declares that at the coming session of congress there must be drastic legislation enacted that will preserve this great natural resource for the people.

The problem of how best to prevent the nation's water power, alien from being gobbled up by such combinations, Mr. Pinchot predicted will be one of the biggest issues, which the next session of congress will have to thresh out. While he stated that the alleged trust is now only in the formative stage, Mr. Pinchot declared that prompt action on the part of congress is necessary to throttle it. On the proper solution of this question, the future happiness of a great many people rests, he said.

Big Problem Confronts Congress. Looming up as another big problem which will confront congress will be the question of the disposition of vast areas of coal lands in the west, but principally in Alaska. It is important that congress should take prompt action on this important matter, Mr. Pinchot said, for the protection of the country's fuel supply and also to prevent a monopoly in that product.

Any doubt that may have existed as to whether Mr. Pinchot would continue to advocate the policies for which he has fought so hard, was set at rest by him. As a result of his western tour he is as fully determined as ever to continue his policies regarding the conservation of the country's natural resources and the great national forest reserves. The only old Mr. Pinchot asserted that President Taft is thoroughly imbued with the conservation movement, but he declared that the people of the country are now more completely aroused over the matter than at any previous time. President Taft, Mr. Pinchot said, has expressed himself in favor of a conservation commission, and added that he was also in accord with that suggestion.

WILL FIGHT TO RECOVER LANDS Government Preparing to Protect Indians of Five Civilized Tribes.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The department of justice is preparing to fight the cases against those persons who by various means secured from members of the five civilized tribes of Indians lands that under the federal government's contention could not be alienated. The suits involve large areas of valuable lands and the government's effort is to recover the lands for the Indians and clear the title.

The United States circuit court in Oklahoma recently decided that what ever right of suit there might be was in the allottee instead of in the United States, because the Indian allottees had been made citizens of the United States and were no longer the wards of the nation. This sweeping decision included the full-bloods as well as the half-bloods and others.

On the application of the government the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis has just advanced these cases and they will be argued about December 6. Assistant Attorney General Russell is preparing the brief for the government, and it will be filed the latter part of October. The government will contend that the lower courts reasoning was bad, chiefly because guardianship is not incompatible with citizenship.

GERMAN-AMERICAN ALLIANCE. Assembles in Biennial Session—Has Membership of 2,500,000.

Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—The biennial convention of the National German-American alliance opened here today, with Dr. C. J. Hexamer of Philadelphia, the president, in the chair. The alliance has a membership of 2,500,000 in 21 states, and the delegates to the convention number more than 300. Tomorrow the National German day will be celebrated in Music hall and Gov. Harman will formally welcome the delegates to the city.

No Complications Expected. Washington, Oct. 2.—Despite reports to the contrary, the government does not anticipate any international complications over the recent action of the Norwegian steamer Varig at Nome, Alaska, early last month. The official reports received here show that the Varig had no manifesto or bill of health, though both of these are required by law, under penalty.

Blast Destroys Powder Mill. South Acton, Mass., Oct. 2.—An explosion destroyed the No. 1 wheel mill of the American powder works here. No one was in the building and the remainder of the plant was not affected. The damage is not large.

Why He Believes.

THEY were having a conference on the car about Cook and Perry, when an old man hitched along toward the dismount and said: "Gentlemen, I don't want to butt in, but I know these Cooks personally." "Oh, you don't," replied one. "No, I lived right beside him on Newark avenue, Brooklyn, for two years." "And what do you know about him?" "A lot, but I base my belief in his truthfulness on just one instance. Yes, sir, just one instance." "Well, let's have it." "He came to my house one day and asked me if I had a wheelbarrow. I said I had. He asked me if I would lend it to him. 'I will, Doctor,' I said, 'if you will bring it back by 2 o'clock, as I shall want to use it then.' 'And he borrowed it?' 'He did.' 'And he brought it back by 2 o'clock?' 'He did. Yes, sir, he was there with it. He was there to the minute, and I want to tell you that a man who will bring his wheelbarrow back when he promises to can't be a liar about anything else on the face of this earth.' And after giving the assertion due consideration the others fully agreed with him. JOE KEHR.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

One Special Aspect of Advertising

The Business Man Who Has Never Considered Advertising

IT is indifference which dulls, deadens, and kills. Active hostility seldom defeats any good, sound proposition, but lack of interest digs many a grave.

The men (if there are any) who are hostile to advertising and grudging of its success cannot hold back merchandising progress much—they will simply be run over. But the men who are otherwise good business men, yet do not take the time to consider the application of advertising to their business—these are the men whom we would like to have inside the fold.

Advertising is constantly and rapidly changing, developing, progressing. The uses which can be made of it, the new and more powerful ways in which it can be applied—these are something which the average business man cannot dream of, unless he is himself in touch with a progressive advertising man.

FOR example: There never was a time when you could bring a notice of your business before so many people of Rock county and vicinity in such a forceful manner and at such an economical price as is today offered by The Gazette. 35,000 consumers read The Gazette daily. Cost to reach this great number of people with a full page announcement of your business is less than $27.00, or about 1¢ for each 13 people reached. A half page costs 1¢ for every 26 people reached. (This rate is based on a 1000-inch contract). Advertising is not expensive. Advertising is not even an expense when rightly handled. Advertising lives and thrives because it MAKES MONEY.

IN SUNNY ALBERTA

You Can Own a Farm On the Crop Payment Plan

We want intelligent home-makers to come to Alberta. The soil in the Bow River Valley is of untold wealth. It is an ideal place for stock raising and dairying, and produces "bumper" crops of wheat, oats, barley, sugar beets, alfalfa and timothy. Southern Alberta has the advantages of a fine climate, railroad facilities, good schools and churches, good roads, rural telephone service. This land is all owned by the Canadian Pacific Railroad and the land is of no value to them. They want to sell it to the people of the Bow River Valley in Sunny Southern Alberta an opportunity to make a home and become wealthy. This is a new land, a land of plenty, with rich, virgin soil. Compare it with the opportunities for farming here—old, worn-out, less actual growing days, where there are a hundred takers for every good opportunity. With the same labor and time that it takes to make a poor living here, you can be wealthy in Sunny Alberta.

Crop Payment Plan

On our plan you practically become a partner of the Canadian Pacific Ry. You pay for the land out of your crops—No crops, no pay. You can't raise crops like these in this country: 27 farmers raised an average of over 42 bu. of winter wheat per acre in the Bow River Valley. 29 farmers raised an average of over 40 bu. of spring wheat per acre in the Bow River Valley. 13 farmers raised an average of over 53 bu. of oats per acre in the Bow River Valley. 44 farmers raised an average of over 43 bu. of barley per acre. Let me prove these statements to you. Let me tell you how the crops of a single year paid for an entire farm on the crop payment plan. Send for one of our free booklets today and decide to investigate. It costs nothing to look into the matter.
